SPIKEOUT

The Ultimate Street Fighting Machine

DIGITAL BATTLE ONLINE

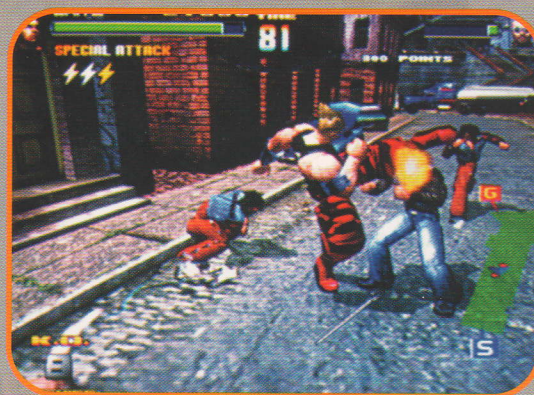

Sega's R & D 2 Departments AM2's revolutionary new 3-D fighting video game, SpikeOut, will certainly change the face of fighting games. This unique concept allows players to determine the course of each stage by traveling down main streets or back alley ways. Other players may join in the fight at any time during the battle. These players may choose to help the other players or go off on their own to fight their own battles. If the players are successful in getting to the end of each stage, they must then defeat the stages "Big Boss" to advance to the next stage.

Multiple weapons and power-ups, which increase the characters' life and fighting power, can be found on each route. The intense action and involved story line ensure repeat play and high earnings over a long period of time.

Game Features

- A networking system (i.e., four 1 player cabinets can be linked) allowing up to four players to compete.
- Simple game controls for both novice and experienced players alike
- Cooperative play among multiple players promotes teamwork.
- Four characters with different personalities, fighting techniques and power to choose from.
- Realistic urban scenes covering 3 stages and 30 different fighting areas. Players can choose their own route and take short cuts.
- Multiple power-ups and weapons on each route
- Solid techno sounds and spine-tingling background music
- Giant speakers attached to a steel mesh, enhances the players experience.
